

Using an ultra-low EMF telephone

Steen Hviid uses his ultra-low EMF telephone to make calls. The EMF from the electromagnet in a normal phone's handpiece hurt too much, so he built his own phone where the sound travels in a plastic tube. He got the idea when seeing a doctor's stethoscope.

Photo is copyright © 2005, Thilde Jensen. All rights reserved. Used with permission.